Dr. Kira Banks has been helping individuals and groups understand themselves, others and systems of oppression for over 20 years. She works across corporations, Hollywood, Broadway, non-profits, K-12 schools, colleges, and community organizations. She is a professor of psychology at St. Louis University where she researches how discrimination affects mental health and co-founded the Institute for Healing Justice and Equity. She is known for making complex and controversial topics accessible and intergroup interactions understandable which she showcases in her podcast, Raising Equity. She received her bachelors from Mount Holyoke College and her masters and Ph.D. from the University of Michigan.
